Solar power has become a low-cost source of electricity generation in Michigan, providing new jobs, new businesses, and new economic development in the state. Locals benefit from powering the economy with solar energy.

88% Decrease in the cost of solar since 2009

35th in the nation for installed solar

193 MW Installed solar capacity in MI

$382.53M Total solar investment in MI

More and more utilities, corporations and the general public want electricity produced from clean, renewable energy, including solar. At 19 MW, Turrill Solar Farm in Lapeer is among the largest solar installations in Michigan. Some of the United States’ largest companies have invested in projects in Michigan, including IKEA.

190 Michigan solar companies

0.24% of MI powered by solar energy

5,337 Solar jobs in Michigan

31,597 Homes powered by solar power

Solar is a new cash crop for farmers. Solar power only takes up a small amount of land and provides a new source of income for landowners and rural communities.